MET DEATH AT EXETER

William Minard Caught His Foot in Railroad
Frog.

Exeter, Feb. 7.—William Minard, 39 years of age of Charlestown, Mass., and a brakeman on an extra freight between Exeter and Dover was killed on the railroad here, this afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock.

Minard was in the act of coupling cars. As the engine was backing slowly and as the cars came together, he started to walk along the track. His foot caught in a frog and he was caught as if in a vice, being utterly powerless before the car which was to pass over him. As the train was backing the engineer could not see his predicament, and one car passed over the man.

Minard was horribly mangled, his head being crushed, and his body cut in halves.

He was married but had no children and had been an employee of the Boston & Maine for six years having run through Exeter for about two weeks. He was a large man and weighed in the vicinity of about 180 pounds.

A brakeman precious to the accident was taken ill on another freight and the train was held up here until one could be sent from Dover to replace him. The freight was badly tied up for a time till affairs could be righted.

Minard's death made the second one at the Exeter station within a period of a week it being just a week ago that George Bracey of Manchester, was struck by the Bar Harbor express at 8.30 o'clock in the morning. This accident today occurred not more than twenty-five yards from where Bracey met his death.

The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Jenkins after being viewed by Asst. Medical Referee Dr. J. G. W. Knowlton. Minard's home was in Charlestown, Mass.

SONS GIVE UP THEIR SUIT

Mrs. Eddy's Sons Will No Longer
Combat Her Last Wishes and Retract Charges

The sons of Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer, and founder of Christian Science, on Friday abandoned all proceedings against their mother's estate and against the First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Mass., and at their own request final decrees and judgments will be rendered against them in all the litigation brought by them in all the New Hampshire and Massachusetts state courts, and in the federal court for the District of New Hampshire.

In 1909 George W. Glover and E. G. Foster Eddy, son, and adopted son, of Mary Baker Eddy made with their mother a family settlement whereby they received from her in cash and trust funds the sum of $20,000 as a full settlement of the shares of her estate, and agreed with her that they never would contest her will or any other disposition of property she might make.

Immediately upon the probating of their mother's will in January, 1911, however, the sons, notwithstanding the above agreement began actions in the state and federal courts of New Hampshire claiming she was intestate and that they were entitled to her entire estate. They also appeared in the Massachusetts supreme court, making the same claim. In all of these proceedings the sons also made direct attack upon the religion of which their mother was the founder, and upon the officials of her church. But in the stipulations just filed, they unconditionally retract such charges and consent that the court may enter judgment against them thereon.

No moneys have been paid or will be paid to the sons in connection with the disposition of the entire litigation. Outside of the matters in litigation, the sons possessed a contingent right during their lifetime to renew the copyrights upon their mother's published works and for the assignment by them of such rights the administrator paid the sum of $5000.

The four stipulations filed grew out of an agreement executed on January 17 between the Hon. Herbert Parker of Boston representing the sons, and all his associate counsel, and General Frank S. Streeter of Concord, N. H., representing the administrator, the church and his associate counsel. The preliminary agreement having been approved by all parties concerned, was re-executed by Mr. Parker and General Streeter on January 25, and provides that there should be final decrees entered against the two sons on all pending litigation, and that all pending litigations in the sons' pleadings reflecting upon Mrs. Eddy or the religion of the Christian Science as founded and taught by her, or upon the integrity of good faith of her associates, counsel and trustees, should be expunged from the court record. It also provides that the administrator should pay the sum of $5000 for the assignment of the sons' contingent rights, and that the trustees holding the fund of $175,000, which is the trust fund portion of the

Seabrook Officials Take Steps
for the Arrest of Tax Collector.

Selectman Emory N. Eaton and Charles F. Dow of Seabrook came here today and asked County Solicitor Ernest L. Gupitt to issue the necessary papers for the arrest of Lowell Boyd, tax collector of the town. It is alleged that Boyd has failed to turn over to the town treasurer nearly $300 of the money collected for taxes, hence their action. Boyd is a man about 70 years of age and the town is secured from loss by his bondsmen, Joseph Perkins and the estate of Mrs. Frances Beckman. Sheriff Spinney was given the papers for Boyd's arrest this afternoon.

MUCH WANTED MAN.
Police of Lynn, Springfield and Other Cities After Hanson.

John Hanson, alias Virgil Trowbridge and several other aliases, appears to be a much wanted man. Since his arrest in Dover on Thursday for the robbery of jewelry at the home of Mrs. G. B. Davis on Cabot street, the local police have received a call from Lynn, Springfield and other places asking for a full description of the man. The police of Lynn are satisfied that he is the man wanted for the same kind of work in that city. Dover police believe that he did some stealing in that city the day of his arrest. It now appears that Hanson did not confine his work to one room at the Davis house, but got several articles from the room of another boarder. The valuation given in police court was $140, but really amounts to $200 or more. The Lynn police department will send a man here to take a look at Hanson, who is now in jail under bonds of $100.

ONE HONEST POLICEMAN

Purcell in Gambling Business in New York Seventeen Years Says He Paid $50,000

New York, Feb. 7.—Herman Rosenthal's one time partner in gambling picked up the broken threads of Rosenthal's story today and told the aldermanic committee investigating graft a tale of money paid for police protection eclipsing that of Jack Ross, Charles Becker's collector. For seventeen years James Purcell said he had paid for the privilege of running a gambling house making a hand book or conducting a pool room. In all he gave the police more than $50,000, he said, during this period.

Former Sheriff Harvey of Queen's county, Police Inspector McLaughlin, half a dozen police captains, including a brother-in-law of Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, and scores of ward-healers and policemen, some now on the force, others off, were among the men who got the money, he said. Once, he said, orders came "indirectly" from Murphy himself to close up. He moved at once.

Charles Becker, now in the death house at Sing Sing for the murder of Rosenthal, got $350 from him for "fixing" the evidence against him and five others taken in a raid Becker made on his gambling house, Purcell declared. Becker was then head of the "strong arm" squad for the suppression of gambling.

"I have paid money to every squad that was ever detailed to headquarters to suppress gambling, except one," Purcell testified. "They all took it, except Costigan. Costigan was on the level."

Costigan was referred to during the first investigation of the Rosenthal case as the "honest policeman."

In return for this protection money, Purcell said, the police generally let him alone. When they had to act on complaints from outside they "tipped him off," he declared. He always moved to another house when thus informed. For a while he moved every day.

Once he defied the police. For nine months, when he had Jack McLaughlin, former lightweight champion pugilist of the world, for a partner, they ran a gambling house on the upper East Side without making the weekly payments to collectors from the system. The police stationed two men at the door of his establishment, he declared, to warn all customers that it was a gambling house.

"But Jack lost that scheme," he said. "If the two policemen forgot to talk or talked when he gave them $5 a piece a day. If they didn't they got no money. They generally talked nice."

Police commissioners, inspectors and captains came and went during the time Purcell was operating in the Tenderloin, he said, but it made no difference. The collectors for the system came around regularly every week or every month. When he was making a hand book he paid them $25 a week, when he was running a pool room or gambling house he paid from $50 to $100 a week. When he was doing nothing he paid nothing.

There were one or two captains and one inspector who didn't do business with the gamblers, Purcell asserted, but they didn't come along together in his precinct. Thus when the captain was "on the level" the inspectors' men came around, and vice versa.

One inspector, he thought incorruptible, he said, was Richard Walsh, dubbed "Smiling Dick."

What became of the money after it reached the hands of the captains or inspectors, Purcell didn't know. He had an idea, gained from talk among his fellows in the Tenderloin, that some of it went "higher up" but he could not say, he testified, as to that.

Purcell said he operated for twelve years in one police precinct—the twenty-first—and probably did business during that period at half a hundred places. Naming the men who collected protection money from him each week, he said they acted for Police Captains McChinlock, Gannon, Delaney, Noland, Cochran, Burns and Gray. The last named is brother-in-law to Charles F. Murphy.

FIRST TO ENLIST FROM YORK

Charles D. Preble, Civil War
Veteran, Observes His Birthday.

Charles D. Preble, who was the first man to enlist from York in the Civil war, on Friday observed his 78th birthday. The greater portion of the day was occupied by him in painting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sherman T. Newton, on Congress street.

He was born in York, Me., Feb. 7, 1835, the son of Francis and Deborah Preble. When he was 15 years old he went to sea. With the call for troops for the Civil war he enlisted on April 24, 1861, in Co. A, 1st Maine Volunteers, which was recruited from residents of Kittery and York and was commanded by Capt. Mark Wentworth, afterwards colonel of the 27th Maine Volunteers.

The company in which Mr. Preble enlisted was detached from the regiment and sent to Fort McClary to guard the approach of Portsmouth harbor and the navy yard. His term of enlistment had just expired when his father died and instead of reenlisting he was obliged to resume the farm duties, left behind by his father, which occupation he followed for several years.

In 1866 he again went to sea for 10 years.

From 1882 to 1889 he conducted the Garrison House at Long Beach, York, being one of the pioneer hotel men at this place. His wife died several years ago, and his family consists of a son, George F. Preble of York Village, and two daughters, Mrs. Sherman T. Newton and Mrs. Herbert C. Wallace of this city. Mrs. John L. Stoddard of Mahlen, Mass., Mrs. Charles F. Hussey of Kittery Point and Mrs. William Newell of Hartford, Conn.

A familiar burden in many homes. The burden of a "bad back." A lame, a weak or an aching back often tells you of kidney ills. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Here is Portsmouth testimony.

George Hayes, 172 Gates St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "My kidneys became disordered some years ago and I suffered severely from pain and lameness in my back. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and at night I was obliged to arise several times. I declared and tried several remedies, but was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philadelphia Pharmacy. They brought the most satisfactory results. After I had finished the contents of two boxes, my trouble had disappeared."

George Bothner, the Man Who Put the Grap in Grapling, Now Hotfoot After the Wrestling Phenoms

PHOTOS © 1913, BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

New York, Feb. 8. George Bothner, the veteran wrestler of this city, and holder of the world's welterweight title, is halfway after all the grapplers at his weight or close to it. This activity is due to the fact that recently a third rate Pacific coast wrestler, posed as the veteran and was defeated in his time. The sporting writers gave considerable space to the article, saying that the once great wrestler had met with defeat by an unknown, and now was a has-been. At the time of this bout, the real George Bothner was in this city attending to his line of business. Naturally George was not under the collar about his name being used by a third rate and is now out to trim 'em all. Bothner has been in the wrestling game longer than any other artist, but acts like a youngster. Recently Henry Isinger, the champion middleweight of Europe, engaged to throw George three times in an hour, but like many others, failed to pin the veteran wrestler's shoulders to the mat even once in the stipulated time. The contest was one of the best ever staged and was a lively one from start to finish. Toward the end many thought that Bothner would dispose of the bulky European, but later Isinger stated that he was just trying out the veteran.

HELEN KELLER SPEAKS AFTER LONG TRAINING

Helen Keller, born deaf and blind, has almost fully surrounded one of the handicaps and will make her first public appearance on the lecture platform at a Socialistic meeting at Manchester, N. J., tonight. Although Miss Keller has been able to speak to a certain extent during the past year, the development of her voice under the care of a singing teacher, has now reached the stage where her words will carry in an auditorium.

"The belief that the loss of one sense increases the powers of the other is a fallacy," she said in a very understandable way recently. "The habit of reliance is the only thing that helps me to bear the limitation."

Miss Keller's teacher explained that name and throat, which enabled a the delicate vibrations of her lips, passed to her with her fingers, were too minute to be reproduced. It was only by saying the sound over and over again until she got it right, and then repeating until the right way became a vocal habit that she learned to talk.

"I must not only get the sound right but I must fix it in my memory by thousands of repetitions," Miss Keller said.

ARTISTIC USE OF JAPANESE EMBROIDERY

The Japanese are eminently clever with the use of their needle, and stripes and patterns and designs of their exquisite embroidery are eagerly coveted by all lovers of beauty and admirers of oriental products. The colors are so exquisitely blended that even the smallest bits may be utilized with good effect, and there are endless ways of using the larger pieces.

Gowns and evening wraps immediately assume a distinctive air when they have a touch of this charming trimmings, for the rich colors harmonize with almost any fabric. Bits of it may be laid upon collars and cuffs, or a gliding may enrich an otherwise sober garment. Often buttons covered from it will give the necessary touch of color, or stripes may be made into large collars or wraps. Pins, too, are made to look richer when combined with oriental colorings.

There are also many objects which can be created which will add a very decorative note to a room. Picture frames look very attractive when made of this material covered with glass, whose edges are bound in furnished gold braids. A bookrack, too, is unusual when treated in this manner, and sofa cushions, table covers or piano scarfs all present a very artistic effect.

Bits of every sort and description are all the rage, and what material is more appropriate than this for their creation? Open bags are charming when caught at the top with heavy cords ornamented with large beads, or the larger workbags with large beads and rings for handles. Trays, too, are much in vogue, both for utilitarian purposes and for their decorative qualities, and squares or oblongs of Japanese embroidery look very smart when framed in old mahogany or the gray, dull tones of Japanese sashiswoods, with furnished silver handles to match. Card cases and pocketbooks with silver dragons, needle books and book and magazine covers are all successful when treated with the needle. Work of the east, and an entirely new idea, to combine these compelling tones with dull, neutral shades. Small bits of embroidery are set into the leather, either in plain or conventional designs.

If you have orders for Helen Keller's lectures, call telephone 3. No 417 if

DRYDEN A COMING WRESTLER

Reports from the Newport training station, where Althouse the sailor who challenged Dryden for a match is now stationed, are that Althouse is getting all the wrestling he wants, and has already been defeated by men much lighter.

Joe Turner who stands ready to meet all comers from any part of the world, for the middle weight championship, has been cleaning all comers in Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and New York, and he is now in New England making a tour, which accounts for his being able to come here next Monday to meet Dryden. Turner is a fast man and if Dryden can get away with him, his reputation as a top notcher is made.

The wrestling game in this city is creating a great deal of interest and as long as run in the clean manner as all of Dryden's matches, it will get the support of the fans. Some of the short sports, who from the start have always picked the wrong man to win the matches are unable to understand how a local man can get away with such men as Dryden has. They fail to understand, or at least don't want to, that Dryden is a perfect wonder in strength, a young fellow who knows the wrestling game, and who always keeps in perfect condition. Even four years ago when he came in off his milk wagon, one morning and made Fritz Hanson hustle to throw him, he was a very strong boy and he has developed wonderfully since that time. Hanson then predicted that if he could learn the game, he would be a very hard man to handle. He has learned the game from some good men and while he does not possess the finer knowledge of the game, as many of the men he has met, he has enough so that with his great strength it has been very effective. At the end of the match Thursday night there was a great difference in the condition of the men. The writer saw both, Halm was practically exhausted, and sat in the corner of his dressing room with his head bowed, a picture of despair. Dryden in his dressing room was washing up and getting ready to leave, and apparently did not show any of the effects of a hard match. Their condition after the match told the story.

Some of the sports who picked Halm to win are wiser but poorer men, and like all poor losers they are grumbling about the referee etc. There was no doubt but what Dryden simply wore Halm down, and in the end Halm's superior knowledge of the game, supplemented by the aggressiveness and strength of a fresher man.

SONS GIVE UP THEIR SUIT

$200,000 given by Mrs. Eddy in 1909, for the benefit of the family of George W. Glover, should not further claim that the rights of Glover and his family in that fund were forfeited by the action in the other court proceedings.

The first stipulation filed in the suit of George W. Glover against Henry M. Baker, executor in the Merrimack county, N. H., superior court, provides that a final decree shall be entered by the court that the gift by Mrs. Eddy of her entire residuary estate in trust for the promotion and extension of the religion of Christian Science as taught by her, "is legal and valid" and that in accordance with the opinion of the United States supreme court, the administrator be instructed to pay over her residuary estate to trustees found duly qualified and appointed by the probate court; that the plaintiff's bill be dismissed upon the merits; that no further suit or proceeding of any kind attacking upon any ground the validity of Mrs. Eddy's will or of any bequest or provision therein contained as brought by the plaintiff in any court; and further, "that this decree shall have the same effect as if rendered after an answer filed by the defendants denying every material allegation of the amended bill; after a full and final hearing on the merits and findings made by the court in favor of the defendants and against the plaintiff upon every material allegation of the bill and its several amendments."

The second stipulation filed in the same court in the case of the petition of the son, George W. Glover for leave to appeal from the probate of his mother's will provides that the petition be and hereby is dismissed upon the merits; that a final judgment shall be entered; that the probate of the will "be and hereby is affirmed in all respects." It also provides as in the first stipulation that the judgment shall have the same effect as if rendered after a full and final hearing upon the merits and after findings made by the court against the son upon other material allegation of his petition.

The third stipulation filed in the suit brought by the adopted son, E. J. Foster Eddy, in the New Hampshire federal court also contains the provisions that Mrs. Eddy's trust estate for the promotion and extension of the religion of Christian Science, as taught by her, is legal and valid; and that the administrator be instructed to pay over the estate to trustees appointed by the probate court; "that the bill be dismissed upon the merits" and that the decree shall have the same effect as if rendered after an answer filed by the defendants denying every material allegation of the bill; and after findings made by the court in favor of the defendants and against the plaintiff upon every material allegation of the bill; and after findings made by the court in favor of the defendants and against the plaintiff upon every material allegation of the bill and its amendments."

The fourth stipulation filed in the case of Chase against Dickey in the Massachusetts supreme court, provides that there shall be a final decree that the sons are not, nor either of them is entitled to any interest in any property within the commonwealth comprised in the estate of Mrs. Eddy at her decease are disposed of in her last will, that no further suit, intervention or other proceeding attacking upon any ground the validity of any provision of Mrs. Eddy's will, or making claim to any of her property, shall be brought by said intervening petitioners, the sons, or either of them in this or any other court, and that this decree shall have the same effect, as if the same had been rendered after a full and final hearing upon all the evidence that any party desired to present, and after findings made by the court upon such evidence against the sons upon every material allegation or their said petition and their answer filed in said cause."

The Atty. General of the commonwealth of Massachusetts joined in signing the stipulation consenting to the entry of the foregoing decrees.

The Atty. General of New Hampshire and special counsel for the state joined in consenting to the entry of the decree provided for in the first stipulation but reserved all rights to which the state may be entitled under its inheritance tax laws.

JOHN CUTLER OF HAMPTON DEAD

John G. Cutler, better known as "Hunkie," one of the best known hotel men in the coast business, died on Friday evening at his home at Hampton Beach after a short illness with double pneumonia.

He was born in Exeter May 10, 1833, the son of Rufus and Annie Cutler. He attended schools in Exeter and went to work for his father who ran a small store. Later he opened a billiard hall in Exeter and conducted this until it was destroyed by fire in 1872.

He then went to Hampton Beach and a few years later purchased the Sea View cottages of Frank Bean. He conducted this as a summer hotel making extensive alterations. May 7, 1886, the cottage was destroyed by fire and he immediately started another and in rather remarkable time had it completed. This hotel he managed up to the time of his death and no hotel man along the coast was better known.

In 1871 he married Hattie Brewster and two sons were born, both of whom have died.

Mr. Cutler was one of the old time Republicans and he was active in the Republican party in this county for many years. He was a great friend of Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway who passed a good portion of his summers at his hotel.

HOPE HE WILL MAKE GOOD

Friends of George Mitchell, who recently went to Toledo, with theillery Twist Drill Co., are predicting that he will make good in the west. He learned the business with Mr. Ellery and became an expert steel hardener and tool maker. His wife and mother are to join him in the west as soon as he has a chance to locate.

George was a valuable member of the local Y. M. C. A. and an athlete of no mean ability, and he is greatly missed in that association.

SENATE MAY VOTE PAY FOR SURPLUS SENATORS

Three United States senators from each of three different states will be on Uncle Sam's pay roll for several days if the Senate passes a resolution which Senator O'Herman of New York has introduced.

Under the general practice of the Senate, the pay of a new senator begins on the day of his election by the state legislature. But there is often several days' delay on the part of the senator-elect in coming to Washington to begin his service. As almost always happens, the senator appointed by the governor to serve until the state legislature elects remains until the new senator arrives. But for that period between the election by the state legislature and the arrival of the senator-elect the old senator receives no pay unless special provision is made. His services are entirely voluntary and free.

Mr. O'Herman's resolution provides for paying Senators Perky of Idaho, Sanders of Tennessee and Johnston of Texas, for their extra days of service. Mr. Perky's successor was elected January 25 and was not sworn in until Feb. 5, and the resolution proposes to pay him $266.12 for thirteen days' extra service. Of course, his successor, James H. Brady, is also paid for that period, thus making three senators on the pay roll from Idaho for thirteen days. It is proposed to pay Senator Sanders $184.93 for nine days' extra service, and Senator Johnston $82.19 for four days' extra service.

ZERO ALONG THE HUDSON

Harvesting of the Ice Crop Will Begin Early Next Week—River Closed Above Kingston.

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 7.—For the first time this winter the mercury dropped to zero this morning, and the outlook now is that the harvesting of ice from lakes in this vicinity will begin early next week. While the Albany boats have stopped running, the river is still open from Kingston to New York, and the Central Hudson boats are running from Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, with every promise of continuing through the winter, a record in river navigation.

With a record of 317 consecutive days of navigation, boats on the Hudson river between Albany and Troy and New York, made their last through trips yesterday. This year's continuous navigation record exceeded the former record established in 1813 by eighteen days.

FIREMEN RACE WITH DEATH

New York Feb. 7.—Sixteen firemen of the volunteer department of Corona L. I., shortly before midnight last night, had a race with death and bent the grim reaper out by 16 noses. The coolness and courage of driver Harry Cupplinger of the hose carriage and the promptness of engineer Connors of the Whitestone express averted a tragedy.

Responding to an alarm of fire, the hose carriage approached the railroad track when the gates were high in the air and the watchman was swinging a white lantern. Taking this for a signal of safety the horses were urged on at full speed, just as the Whitestone express, bound from Flushing to Long Island city, was flying along toward the crossing.

The engineer blew his whistle as he got a glimpse of the hose wagon through the trees and instantly applied the emergency brakes. Driver Cupplinger did not see the oncoming train until his spirited horses were almost on top of the track.

Like a flash he made up his mind what he would do. He brought down his whip on the horses' back and shouted to them at the top of his voice. Not a man attempted to jump from the hose carriage. With bent breath they awaited the outcome of the race with death. The horses fairly leaped into the air.

Bumpety-bump went the carriage on the tracks the white light of the engine streaming upon it and lighting up its occupants. The horses were over, but the carriage was upon the tracks. Time was measured in fractions of a second, but the carriage won, the cowcatcher of the engine just grazing the hind wheels of the carriage as it cleared the rails.

Horses and locomotive then came to a full stop, but it was found little damage had been done to either, and both then proceeded on their way.

Nat Goodwin Again.

If one thing more than another is calculated to call renewed attention to the great and growing divorce evil it is Nat Goodwin's avowed determination to venture out for the fifth time in his apparently frail bark on the troubled matrimonial sea. His marital performances are, in the words of the old-time advertisement, almost "too numerous to mention" and have reached the proportions of a national scandal. He seems to labor under a delusion; the delusion that his matrimonial escapades are no part of the business of the public. Therein he is mistaken, grievously mistaken, because the American people, as a whole, do not take kindly to this species of low comedy, for such it really is; if not absolutely criminal with a tendency toward an undermining of the morals of the community. Starting in with Miss Eliza Wethersby, the list, in order, is as follows: Miss Nellie Baker Pease, Miss Maxine Elliott and Miss Edna Goodrich. To which is likely to be added Marjorie Moreland, lately divorced from Charles N. Doughty. But with this wholesome condemnation of Goodwin, whereabouts in the social scale can we look for the recipients of his attentions? One and all they are a doubtful lot, in all probability, and richly deserve a liberal share of the obloquy showered upon Goodwin himself.

Democratic Donkey in Line.

It is understood that one of the principal features of the inaugural parade in Washington, March 4, will be the Young Men's Democratic Club of Washington, and at its head a genuine, simon pure donkey, presumably bearded and otherwise profusely decorated befitting the occasion. People who have been more or less skeptical respecting the existence of the animal are in a way to have their doubts removed. Inasmuch as this much abused and often unjustly cartooned beast of burden is supposed to typify the loftiest degree of patience—as well as of stubborn obstinacy—we are not sure that our democratic brethren have made a mistake in selecting this long-eared representative of the animal kingdom with the phenomenal voice as the sign by which they have hoped to conquer for, to, these many years. Of course, more or less unkind, perhaps thoughtless, suggestions will be made when the donkey appears with his patient and hungry following, but they will be permitted to find vent for the long suppressed hee-hawing, and if their leader should give expression to his long pent-up feelings with a braying "to beat the band" when passing the reviewing stand there'll be none to say him "neigh."

Russians Bar Portias.

A late dispatch from the land of the czar says that the duma bill permitting women to practice law in Russia has been rejected by the council of the empire by a vote of 84 to 60. And this despite the fact that the leading jurists and a preponderance of public opinion favored the bill. But the old liners of the empire, inspired by the minister of justice, defeated the measure. But this really inalienable right has only been postponed, not killed, and the legally qualified Russian women are sure to have their innings. Take our own Belva A. Lockwood as an illustration of woman's capabilities in law. The first woman admitted to practice before the United States supreme court, she has nobly established her right to the distinction and now, at the age of more than 80 years, she has been elected an active member of the Medico-Legal League, the letter of notification reading thus: "For eminent public service which, in the judgment of the executive committee, entitles you to receive the highest distinction that the society could give."

It Would Vex John Knox.

President-elect Wilson may be too academic, as some of his political antagonists have freely charged, but if the "unlabeled" don't find out unmistakably that they have "caught a Tartar" before the expiration of one half his term, we shall be greatly, if not sadly, mistaken. That the great man has a temper, somewhat explosive at times, is beginning to be admitted, and beneath his placid exterior there may lurk the fires unquenchable. The other day a persistent newspaper man, so the story goes, approached Governor Wilson with something akin to a demand for a news story, but to his surprise Governor Wilson said: "You can change me for another man but you cannot change me into another man, and I'll be — if you shall have this information!" And this from a man reared in the faith of John Knox!

Sculptural Disfigurement.

Boston's art lovers are in the dumps, so to speak, because of the determination of "the powers that be" to remove the statuesque presentment of more or less ancient worthies from Back Bay thoroughfares to the Public Garden. But these remonstrants, who considered the proposed removal really

Joseph P. Tumulty, Who Will Be Secretary to President Wilson.

By his selection of Joseph P. Tumulty of Jersey City as secretary to him in the presidency Governor Wilson obtains an unusually well trained and vigorous aid. Mr. Tumulty will be the youngest man who has ever held the office of secretary to the president. He is thirty-three years old. Born in a prominent district of Jersey City, the son of an iron molder in poor circumstances, Mr. Tumulty was reared amid surroundings tending to develop self reliance. He worked and studied hard, and became a lawyer, gaining a splendid practice. He was recently clerk of the New Jersey supreme court.

sacrilegious, simply entrench themselves behind sentiment. Public opinion, as a whole, seems to favor the change, one daring fellow, with but little reverence for more or less picturesque antiquities, suggests boldly that instead of taking the statues to the Public Garden they be taken out to the deep, deep sea and thrown overboard, in imitation of the tea party episode. "Behold how blessed a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

FEBRUARY

February, cold, bleak month, they chime. Cloudy days, high winds, and icy time. Storm of snow flakes drifting drift on drift. Misting slowly day by day in veil of mist. Sunlight, peeping from behind dark clouds. Ocean roar and Nature singing loud. H. M. G. H.

RAILROAD NOTES

Thirty nine thousand feet of lumber for bridge work was delivered on the York branch by a work train on Friday.

Vice-President Jones of the Central Vermont railroad says that to his knowledge money for extension of Southern New England has not yet been raised. He denied that there was any agreement between Grand Trunk and New Haven which might lead to the raising of the required $5,000,000.

Announcement was made yesterday to our order issued by Vice-President Henry Horn and countersigned by President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, that General Manager Benjamin R. Pollock has been transferred to the Boston & Maine railroad, to become general manager of the transportation department.

The change is to go into effect on Monday, and it is expected that other in the management of the New York will soon follow.

Early last December Mr. Pollock became general manager of the New Haven. The office which he is to assume was last held by Frank Barr.

The telephone numbers of the city lines connecting the local passenger station, telegraph office, and round house have been changed.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen petitioned General Superintendent William F. Ray of the Boston & Maine railroad Friday for the restoration of the day shifter in the Dover yard.

The grievance of the trainmen is that they are forced to do the shifting in Dover, that the recently removed shifter crew did, and in view of the fact that they are trainmen, a demand of a half day's extra pay is made. The reinstatement of regular shifter service seems to be the only feasible means of settling the matter, hence the petition of the brotherhood.

SLIDE BAFFLES CANAL CHIEFS

Portsmouth, Feb. 7.—Col. George W. Goethals and the other canal engineers are helplessly watching a great slide of earth which is moving slowly into the cut at Calverton. The movement extends back for a quarter of a mile and will carry 3,000,000 into the cut, completely filling a large section. The slide began on Saturday, and has not yet gone into the cut, despite reports to the contrary, but apparently by no power can stop it. Railroad tracks and machinery are being moved to places of safety. It is estimated that it will take until November to remove the material which is coming down with the slide. The movement of the great mass of

UNCLAIMED LETTERS

The following letters remain unclaimed for at the Portsmouth Post-office for the week ending Feb. 8, 1913. Akerman, Mrs. M. L. Brackett, J. L. Emery, George W. The Observer

In passing through the corridor of the postoffice recently the thought occurred to the writer to inquire how long the tiling which forms an attractive feature of the floor had been laid. While waiting for the mail, Mr. Alderman Charles E. Whitehouse entered the building and an inquiry of him elicited the fact that he assisted in the laying of the tiling in 1875 and was now the only living person that worked on the job. The work was in charge of Enoch J. Conner, father of Postmaster Conner, and the masons employed to do the work were Freeman Burleigh, George H. Ham, Walter S. Gray and Mr. Whitehouse. The tenders were Enoch Jones, Joseph Gordon and George Hersey. The postmaster at that time was Eldridge G. Pierce with Amos Foster as assistant postmaster and Mark W. Ayers chief clerk. Edwin H. Leslie was the janitor of the building. All of these men, well known in their day, have passed over to the other world. The tiling placed in the postoffice corridor nearly forty years ago by Contractor Conner and his force of workmen still stands as a memento of their work and will undoubtedly remain for many years to come as it is still in an excellent state of preservation notwithstanding the travel of many thousand persons each year.

The police force have a valuable assistant in Dana B. Cutter, the genial ticket agent at the Boston & Maine railroad. I am told, and that gentleman has during the past year been responsible to a certain degree for the capture of several men badly wanted by our local police force. That Mr. Cutter is a close observer of his patrons was shown again on Thursday in the capture of John Hanson, the sneak-thief who operated at the house of G. H. Davis on Cabot street. As soon as the police received word that the house had been looted and a description of the man given, word was telephoned to Mr. Cutter. The answer was flashed back over the phone, "The man you want took the 12:20 train to Dover."

The result was that Hanson was soon captured in the up-river city by the tip furnished the police by Mr. Cutter. In speaking about Hanson's arrest, Mr. Cutter said that he knew that there was something wrong with the man, as when he approached the ticket window he first inquired for a train to Boston. When told that the next train did not leave until 1:42 o'clock, he exclaimed, "Where does that train go?" On being told it was about to leave for Dover, he replied, "Give me a ticket for Dover," and on receiving the same, rushed out and boarded the train. This led Mr. Cutter to think the fellow had been up to some mischief and he said he would have been willing to place a wager to that effect, just on his observation of the party at the ticket window.

While some of the local pencil pushers are at the present time making the police station their principal rendezvous, and the only thing needed to complete their happiness is for the police department to furnish them with a cot bed, there seems to be one item of news which occurred recently and which was overlooked. Perhaps, however, the officer in question did not make a report of the affair but those who participated will attest to the fact that he was on the job. It was while he Rev. Percy Caswell, the new pastor of the Court street Christian church was installing himself in the parsonage in Jollington street that the event happened. The clergyman, who was attired in clothing suitable for the work that he was engaged in about the house, had occasion to go to the nearest "cigar box" to post a letter. As he was about to approach the box he was accosted by the officer, who inquired if he was not engaged in peddling from house to house. The clergyman soon satisfied him that he was not, and the matter concerned had a hearty laugh over the matter.

The members of Dunton Lodge, No. 9, Knights of Pythias, can well feel pleased with their efforts during the past year in adding to their membership. According to the membership report of the lodges throughout the state, received here today from the Grand Keeper of Records and Seals, he local lodge has advanced from the 15th largest lodge to the third largest lodge in the state. The lodges at Dover and Farmington are the only two having a larger membership and judging by the way that the local lodge is adding to its membership the present "era" of the lodge at Farmington will have to look to its laurels or it will be displaced from second position ere the advent of another year.

The death of John G. Cutler, the veteran summer hotel keeper at Hampton Beach, removes a man that numbered his friends by the legion and his enemies, if he had any, on one hand. For nearly forty years the word Cutler's had been a synonym for Hampton Beach and the genial landlord was known to the traveling public far and near. His hotel was for years the favorite resting place of Congressmen from A. Sulloway and here the "Tideline of the Merrimack" was in the habit of meeting his political supporters from all over Rockingham county and also some from across the line in the neighboring state of Massachusetts. With the passing of John Cutler from his hotel business at Hampton Beach, it will seem to those who have been accustomed to receive his cheery greeting for so many years that there is something lacking, in fact the play of Hamlet without Hamlet.

The friends of Assistant Marshal George H. Ducker are highly pleased at the manner in which he has adapted himself to the duties of his new office. In the persons of City Marshal Hurley and Assistant Marshal Ducker our city has two very able officers who can be depended upon for any class of police work. City Marshal Hurley long ago established an enviable record for himself in police work and it is safe to predict that with the advent of time Assistant Marshal Ducker will have a record in police work that will be second to none. Continued success to these two able officials.

A paper published in a nearby town recently contained an editorial communication on the evil effects caused by the busy tongues of the village gossipers, whereby a highly respectable young girl was driven from the home of her foster parents by their slanderous remarks. We are sorry to chronicle the fact that this city has a number of persons of the class who make their chief vocation of spreading scandal. No person is in a better position to hear these rumors, which are a great many times of a damaging character to the unsuspecting victim of their calumny, than the reporter of a daily newspaper. I am sorry to have to say it, but in nine cases out of ten these causes of malicious slander when traced to the fountain head originate with women, instead of men. The hearsay story is told at the afternoon whist club or some similar gathering and it increases as it passes from one mouth to another until it becomes an assured fact according to the last relator. Would it not be well to remember the words of the Saviour: "Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone."

UNIQUE CELEBRATION PLANNED.

When Klauw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks brought the Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblauch comedy drama to the Tremont theatre, Boston, they added one to the "Milestones" of theatrical advancement in that city—for his daintiest, sweetest and most heart-grIPPING of plays has undoubtedly marked a distinct progress in theatrical entertainment. No play of recent years has met with quicker appreciation on the part of the public. Its appeal is so universal that boxes and gallery are alike filled at every performance. It is a play for all ages and all conditions. It is a play of progress, for though the young people of the first act become the old people of the last, there is always a new generation with new ideas, new hopes, new loves to prove that the world itself never grows old. "Milestones" teems with love, and ambition, and hope. The keynote is optimism—for in it all the petty tragedies of three generations are swept aside to make way for happiness. It is not a sermon but a real story of absorbing interest told to us with such fidelity of detail that the various characters become our firm friends.

It is not surprising to learn that the London company is now in its second year, that of the two companies brought to this country from London early in September, one will soon celebrate its 20th New York performance while the Boston company will commemorate its similar American record at the Tremont theatre on Monday, March 10. For the 20th performance of the New York organization Klauw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks have hit upon a unique form of celebration—to exchange the two companies for one evening only, Monday, March 3, when the New York company will appear at the Tremont theatre and the Boston company at the Liberty theatre, New York, both organizations returning the next day to their respective American homes.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN ANNAPOLIS EXAMINATIONS

The naval authorities do not share the views of Captain John H. Gibbons, superintendent of the Naval Academy, in favor of changing the method of examining candidates for the academy. At present candidates are examined under the Civil Service Commission at points near their homes. Formerly they were ordered to Annapolis. Under the old system it was found that many candidates and alternates failed to appear, and there were usually many vacancies in the corps of midshipmen. It has been found by experience that while there are disadvantages in examining candidates all over the country, the Naval Academy obtains a larger number of those qualified than when the examinations were held at Annapolis.

Captain Gibbons believes that there should be a return to the old method, believing that it would improve the morals of the midshipmen, which has deteriorated, according to an opinion which he expressed recently before the House Naval Committee. There is likely to be no change, however. Another phase which operates to discourage Captain Gibbons's proposal is that the appearance of so many candidates at Annapolis would result in additional preparatory schools in that city. These schools have been regarded as more or less of an interference with Naval Academy discipline.

The Phoebe held their regular business meeting last evening at the Second Christian church, and among the business transacted was the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Bernice Locke; vice-president, Mrs. Clara L'Amoureux; secretary, Mrs. Nettie Howden; treasurer, Miss May Brown. The report of the secretary, treasurer was read for the past year, which included the following:

The Phoebe Society was organized with fourteen charter members. The number of active members is now 37. A constitution and bylaws were adopted in March, 1912. As an introduction to the public, a reception was given on March 23, 1912, at which the attendance and interest were most gratifying. The regular meetings are held on the first and third Friday of each month. Until the summer recess, at each meeting a social was held, at which refreshments were served by the hostesses. After the summer recess a calendar of meetings for the remainder of the year was made up. It has included programs devoted to travel, current events, etc., and has proved interesting and instructive. Owing to the liberal patronage of the public, the society has prospered financially during the year. The money raised from suppers and sales, has been spent for the improvement of the church property. Nearly $30 has been given for putting electric lights in the vestry and $100 has been donated to the fund for installing the steam heat.

Plans were further talked over for the supper which occurs next Wednesday evening from 5.30 to 7, and refreshments of ice cream and cake served. There was a large attendance of members present.

BOWELS BAD, LIVER TORPID? CASCARETS

If Constipated, Bilious, Headachy, Stomach Sour, Get a 10 Cent Box

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep are bilious, nervous and upset bothered with a sick, sour, gassy, disordered stomach or have backache, and feet all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep: cleanse and regulate the stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a ten cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

KITTERY MAN DROPPED.

Failed to File Necessary Bond for Position of Deputy Sheriff.

Walter Hatch of Kittery, employed in the navy yard was one of the new deputy sheriffs appointed by Sheriff Frank M. Irving of Kennebunk, about six weeks ago when the York county official gave out his list. Hatch was to take the place of Frank T. Clarkson, the Democrat from Kittery Point. Hatch will not serve and the sheriff must pick another man from the towns across the river. He failed to file the necessary bond to required time, and the place is at present vacant. No doubt Kittery or Elliot will furnish a good man for the position at the right time.

SMOKERS BUYING ASBESTOS POCKETS

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Local tailors are receiving orders from their customers that at least one asbestos pocket be placed in every suit and every overcoat they make, as a result of the new "no smoking" rule of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company.

A widely known Walnut street tailor placed a large order for asbestos, and when asked if he had been employed to make an asbestos suit he explained:

"Why, some of my customers are bringing back their overcoats to have the asbestos pocket fixed. They want the pocket as a saving in cigar bills."

"There is no danger to the clothes, as here is a little flap on the asbestos pocket that makes it partially airtight, and the cigar, without air, goes out almost as soon as it is placed in the pocket. It smokes very little, and there is no danger that the conductor will attempt to put off the passenger with the asbestos pocket."

The tailor said he got the idea of the asbestos pocket from a wealthy business man who pays 50 cents apiece for his cigars, and objects to throwing away 45 cents' worth because the traction company says he must.

KISSED WIFE, FATHER AND MOTHER-IN-LAW

Baltimore, Feb. 7.—Now comes into 'twilight George W. Deems, husband of the woman whose emphatic declaration that she has never been kissed has quite generally appeared in print. Deems places both his wife and his mother-in-law in the Aunty Club.

"What?" he asks. "Never been kissed? Why I've kissed her more than a thousand times. I've kissed her and I've kissed my mother-in-law, and I had wanted I could have kissed my father-in-law. It's all bunk about never being kissed."

"What do you think I am? Do you think I'd be fool enough to go with a girl and then marry her if she ever teased me? I kissed her whenever I got good and ready. She knows how I kiss and she enjoyed being kissed."

BILL BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Medical Fraternity Would Regulate the Osteopaths.

With the disposition of the "Portsmouth osteopathic case," in a verdict for the respondent, which establishes the right of osteopaths to employ the term "doctor" or "physician," the interest of the medical fraternity is centered in an effort to pass a bill now before the state legislature which would regulate the practice of osteopaths and would require a medical examination for them in order to obtain the right to practice in New Hampshire. Because the disposition of the Dr. Julia J. Chase case, the medical bill is of particular interest to the city.

Dr. Charles E. Johnston, who is city physician, said today that the medical bill is backed by the American Medical association and that it has the endorsement of the local associations of New Hampshire. The bill, which is introduced by Representative Duncan, would permit all osteopaths now practicing in the state to continue in practice after July 31, provided they had obtained certain college instruction in various phases of their practice, and would require that the osteopaths who would desire to establish themselves after that time would be required to undergo an examination before the state board of medical examiners. The bill would also reorganize the state board, by the addition of an osteopath on the board and would reduce the number of homeopaths in order that the homeopathic representation on the board would be in comparison to the number of homeopaths practicing in the state.

The bill would require that all men and women practicing osteopathy must have had a certain training in anatomy, physiology, chemistry and pathology, and that they must be graduated from recognized institutions in which osteopathy is taught. Their study must have been of at least a twenty-month term. If they fulfill those requirements they will be permitted to continue their practice without further examination. It is said to be estimated that if the bill passes less than twenty of the osteopaths now practicing will be permitted to continue without undergoing an examination before the state board.

The bill further provides that the osteopaths now practicing in the state who could not conform to those requirements would be forced to go before the state board for an examination. All others coming into the state after the passage of the bill would be compelled to undergo an examination before they would be permitted to practice. The bill is said to be influenced by practically every physician and surgeon in the state and by the comparatively small number of homeopaths who have not had the required training. Opposition is expected from the osteopaths who have not received the benefits of the incribed instruction but who insist that their training has been adequate to enable them to successfully engage in practice. The bill would limit them to the practice of minor surgery.

As affecting the homeopaths, the bill would limit the number of their representatives on the state board in comparison to the number of homeopaths practicing in the state as against physicians and surgeons. The bill is not expected to meet the indorsements of the homeopaths.

THE NEW WOMAN

(From the San Antonio Express)

Colorado is about to amend the state constitution so as to provide for service on juries by women, and it is interesting, if not amusing, to note the point of view of members of the Legislature who discussed the pending bill.

Said Senator Williams: "I should hate to see the time come when my wife or my daughter would be chosen for service on a mixed jury. Besides, there are many criminal cases in which it would be an insult to ask a woman to listen to the evidence brought out."

"This may be considered the view of what the so-called 'progressives' call a 'reactionary.' It was the women who voted this town wet. They drink more highballs and cocktails and smoke more cigarettes a day than the men do. So I cannot see why they should not serve on juries if they want to do it," and this, we may assume, is the 'progressive' view. Some of us who are old-fashioned in our ideas, who believe that woman's proper sphere is the home and that in her elevated moral life she is the bulwark of society, do not like this new woman who drinks cocktails, smokes cigarettes, who desires to engage actively in militant politics and sit on juries and do pretty much everything that men do. The wave of sweeping over the country has taken progressivism that has swept up some of our most lovable women off their feet and has put them up in the air, and that bodied civility that has such a beautiful illustration at the sinking of the Titanic steamship has been given a jolt that makes some of the old-fashioned folks gripe, but it is all in a lifetime and, perhaps, we cannot do anything better than to beat the cross and await the return of reason when this 'progressive' wave has rolled its and when our mothers, wives and sweethearts will not be threatened with a fall from their high estate, from the pedestal that love and respect and veneration have erected for them, and will not recognize or affiliate with the cocktail-drinking, cigarette-smoking women, who think it the proper thing to ape the vices of the other sex in their mad adventure for an unsexed society in which what was best becomes the worst.

Maybe one of those Colorado senators was merely speaking ironically and did not mean to be taken literally but we do not like what he said, even as a jest.

POWERS UNEASY OVER THE BALKAN SITUATION

Allies Attack On Dardanelles May Stir Powers To Action.

London, Feb. 7. That expectation of which the Balkan war received here is illustrated by the fact that the story telegraphed from Constantinople yesterday that severe action had been initiated by the Turkish fleet on the Bulgarian army advancing through the neck of the peninsula of Gallipoli is today declared unfounded by the Bulgarian War Office at Sofia. The truth is, that much so-called war news merely reflects the views the respective army headquarters desire to spread. The Bulgarian staff asserts that an Ottoman force which attempted yesterday to advance from the Tchatalja lines in the direction of Izmid was quickly repulsed by the Bulgarian troops and compelled to retreat behind the lines after suffering heavy losses. The bombardment of Adrianople continues without any appreciable advantage being secured by either combatant.

Military experts here doubt whether the Allies, even if they secured a firm foothold on the shores of the Sea of Marmora, possess sufficient strength in siege guns to overcome the powerful defenses along the Dardanelles Straits, even on the European side, say nothing of the still stronger fortifications on the Asiatic side of the channel, which alone would be able to bar the passage of the Greek fleet from the Aegean Sea to the Sea of Marmora. In Germany it is asserted that in the event of the operations of the Allies actually threatening the forts domnear Mida of troops from Trobizond. A Constantinople despatch says Mahmoud Shekret Pasha, has given assurances that only unimportant skirmishes have occurred.

LEGISLATURE

House Bill No. 418, introduced by Representative Pannett of Manchester, has been referred to the committee on revision of statutes. It aims to do away with the payment by firms and corporations of employees who are members of the legislature during the time they are at Concord.

The bill, which has been the object of much discussion, pro and con, according to the lay of the land reads: "It shall be unlawful for any corporation or firm within this state to pay any employee of said corporation or firm, who is a member of the general court, any money in the nature of wages or otherwise during that portion of the time which said employee is absent from his employment in attendance upon said court."

A growing tendency to look after the morals of women and children is to be noted in the comparatively large number of bills introduced into the present legislative session. Among them any liquor bill is one introduced by Wesley of Dover, which provides strict punishment for minors falsifying their age in order to obtain intoxicating liquors.

This bill, house bill No. 446, reads: "A minor who falsifies his age for the purpose of obtaining intoxicating liquors shall be fined twenty dollars or be imprisoned not more than twenty days, or both."

The bill is short but correspondingly sweet, and aims to do away with a great deal of moral depravity which at present is known to exist among boys and young men, who, by reason of appearing older than they really are, secure liquor which is harmful in the extreme to the adolescent body.

Representative Callahan of Keene, in bill No. 393, which has been referred to the committee on public health aims to prohibit the sale of tobacco in any of its forms to women. "It shall be unlawful for any individual or member of any firm, or agent, officer or employee of any company or corporation to give or sell tobacco in any of its forms to women."

"Any individual or member of any firm or any agent, officer or employee of any company or corporation, violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum of not less than twenty-four dollars or imprisoned not less than sixty days."

In order that judicial economy may not be affected by the act of the body, the bill further provides "The judge shall have power to suspend the fine or imprisonment under this act."

Every owner of horses in New Hampshire is interested vitally in house bill No. 639, introduced into the legislature by Representative Perron of Franklin, which relates to cruelty to animals.

"Every owner of a horse shall have such horse examined once during each year by a practicing veterinary appointed by the N. H. Woman's Humane society," reads the bill, "and shall receive a certificate for same; if said horse is free from disease or disorder no fee shall be paid the examining veterinary, but in case said horse is suffering and needs treatment said owner shall pay a fee of $1 and said veterinary shall receive no fee from the state of New Hampshire, if any person shall fail to have horses in his possession examined and shall not exhibit such certificate in a conspicuous place, in or near the stable, on or before the first day of September, for the current year, said person shall be subject to a fine not exceeding fifty dollars for each offense."

Whether the bill, if passed would not be of great benefit to all owners is a question which can have but one answer. Were the bill passed, the backers argue that much of the work which societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals would be facilitated if not rendered absolutely unnecessary.

Those who are responsible for it claim that the provision of the bill which provides paying the veterinary the fixed sum of $1 for treatment of each sick animal would be a great boon in the private owner who is unable to maintain a regular account with a veterinarian and who consequently is liable to extortionate charges for frequent visits.

WHAT THE WOMEN DESIRE TO DO

So much interest has been aroused in the project of the Social Welfare Committee of the Civic Association concerning the employment of a woman social agent, that it may be well to explain to the public a little in detail the entire proposition.

The apparently widespread opinion that the women of this city wish to ask for the addition of a woman to the regular police force is somewhat incorrect since there is no desire, nor is there probably any need, for such a step to be taken.

The women equally with the men of Portsmouth, have entire confidence in Marshal Hurley's integrity and in his ability to so conduct his force as to give to the city the best possible service of protection. The purpose, then, of the committee which is to be composed of women representing, so far as possible, every church, and fraternal organization in the city, is to supplement the work of the police force and the churches by the employment of a woman social agent whose work shall be principally with the young girls of the city.

Nor is this of necessity an aspiration upon the home; rather is it one of the signs of the times. Homes in too many cases are today unable to cope with new and untold conditions. This is true of homes of rich and poor alike. There is need of cooperation from without if the homes of the present and future generations are to be the strongholds of our country in the future as they have been in the past.

It is needless to particularize the needs for a woman social worker in Portsmouth. There is doubtless not a policeman, nor a newspaperman, nor a social worker in the entire city, who does not recognize the need as the value of such an agent.

In order that the movement shall be fully wide the committee, which already has upon its list representatives from the various churches, has sent out letters to the fraternal orders asking that women delegates be sent to the next meeting. These orders which are composed of men only will doubtless, choose capable women from the immediate families of some of the members.

The money to pay a year's salary of the agent will be raised by the women of the city. Pledges have already been made that show that the plan will meet with generous support.

It is probable that the police commission will be asked to clothe this woman with special police authority as a moral aid in the furtherance of her work. Such police authority is now granted to persons not on the regular force whose duties require them to be held in respect by wrongdoers.

This is not a new or untried plan. Many cities and towns in the United States have already such workers as the results are highly satisfactory. The committee confidently expects that the citizens will look with favor upon the work and will cooperate in every way possible with it.

ANCIENT MOUND IN KALAMAZOO

Standing in Bronson Park, in Kalamazoo, Mich., are two pieces of landwork representing races that have passed out of existence in this part of the continent.

One is a mound built ages ago by the mound builders. The other is a stockade built in the last century by Indians.

The mound for years has been the source of great attraction in Kalamazoo. It is nearly 6 feet high and 100 feet in diameter. When Titus Bronson first came here in 1883, the mound was one of the first strange sights he witnessed. On top of the mound stood a big oak tree probably 100 years old, and Indians told Bronson that as far as they knew the mound had always been there.

Only once has it been opened, and that was many years ago. It was found that the soil contained in the mound was nothing like the soil about it, and it has always been believed that the mound was brought here from some other place.

The mound is a circle and could not be more perfect if it had been cast in a mold.

Many notable people have made addresses from the top of the mound. Abraham Lincoln, Roosevelt, McKinley, Douglas, Sherman Harrison and many others have used it as a platform.

The Indian stockade stands just a short distance from the mound. It is built of pine timbers, but so old is it that the park keeper has found it necessary to wire it together in order to keep the pine posts from falling apart.

At best the stockade can last but effort is made not to permit it being a few years longer, although special damaged in any way. Old settlers say that the stockade was used as a hiding place by the Indians while hunting deer.—Detroit Free Press.

HANSON HELD IN $1000 BAIL

John Hanson, who ransacked the house of Gerald Davis on Thursday and got away with nearly $150 worth of jewelry, was arraigned before Judge Stines in police court Friday and pleaded guilty to the charge.

He was held in $1000 bail for the April term of court, and in default was committed to jail.

The police think that Hanson has a police record and will seek to get the details before his case goes to the grand jury.

MONEY APPROVED.

Plates for Backs of New Bills Now Will Be Engraved.

The fine arts commission having approved the design for the backs of the small sized paper money which makes its appearance Feb. 1, 1914, Secretary of the Treasury McVeigh is expected today to order the bureau of engraving and printing to begin the work of engraving more than 1,000 plates, which will be used in the printing of the new money.

The new design is by Kenyon-Cox of New York and is considered a most wonderful piece of art. This design will go on the backs of all sized denominations when the new money is printed.

On the left end of the design is a male figure depicting Agriculture and on the right end another male figure representing Commerce. In the center of the note are three figures, the center of which is "America" or "Liberty" on the right "Peace" and on the left "Plenty."

The Secretary as yet has not approved the designs for the face of the new notes, excepting that of the one dollar bill, which is very simple. It bears a picture of George Washington with no other ornaments. The faces of the other denominations are expected to bear the portraits of past Presidents.

Ex-County Commissioner George W. Paul of Newfields was a visitor here on Friday.

WRENN ARRESTED IN NOVA SCOTIA

Police Inspector Jack O'Dowd of Manchester was here on Friday evening on his way to Nova Scotia, after John Wrenn or Ware, who is charged with being implicated in the death of James S. Hamilton, a construction foreman for a Boston concern at this date on Wednesday. Word was received Friday of the arrest in Nova Scotia of Wrenn.

Following the discovery of Hamilton's battered body near the house where he boarded, along the new line of the Brasletore & Hinesdale Branch of the Boston & Maine, it was learned that Wrenn had recently been discharged, and had left Brasletore yesterday with his wife and child on the train due to reach Boston at 2:40.

Officers accordingly were detained to watch the North and South stations in Boston and the outgoing boats. It was suspected that Wrenn would head for Nova Scotia. The hotels and lodging houses were also kept under surveillance. Before the Portland boat sailed at 7 o'clock it was thoroughly searched when it was learned that a man answering Wrenn's description had been seen on the deck shortly before.

The murder of Hamilton was particularly brutal and is as yet a mystery to the contractors for whom he worked. He had about 1000 men under him, and it was believed that he either was attacked by some one who believed he had the pay roll on his person, or who was actuated by a grudge for being discharged.

As soon as the news of the man's death reached Boston his firm announced that they would leave no stone unturned to discover the murderer. They offered a reward of $3000 for his apprehension and conviction, and declared their intention of sending detectives to New Hampshire at once to investigate the matter there.

They communicated with the police throughout New England and secured their co-operation in rounding up Wrenn if possible. He is the only man who is known to have had any trouble with Hamilton, owing to his discharge Monday. Wrenn is described as from 25 to 30 years old, 5 feet, 11 inches in height, weighing about 200 pounds, light complexioned, with blue eyes and a full, smooth-shaven face.

Hamilton had been employed in Rochester, N. Y., prior to his going to work for Hildbrook, Cahot & Rollins at Hinesdale, about a year ago. He leaves a father, mother and sister in Rochester.
